Empathy, Medicine, and the Human Condition
CLCS 3720-001
Spring 2016

In this unique class, you will:
- Study and think deeply about cross-cultural encounters of healing
- Read literary works, case studies, and cross-cultural psychology about empathy
- Cultivate your own capacity for empathy and attention through breath work, contemplative exercises, and mindfulness meditation

Texts include case studies on schizophrenia and art; a novel about the first medical and economic encounters between Japan and the West; and writings on Buddhist psychology, Jungian archetypes, and non-traditional healing, among others.

Learn about and practice empathy for school, career, and life – for the classroom and beyond!

FULFILLS GEN ED HF REQUIREMENT!

MW 11:50-1:10, MBH 104 – 3 credits – CLCS 3670-001

Instructor: Joseph Metz, Ph.D
joseph.metz@utah.edu