

RELS 3620

THINKING ABOUT RELIGION

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

How do religious beliefs influence culture, personality, and relationships? In which ways does religion affect national ideologies and geopolitical trends? This course will explore potential answers to those questions while investigating the central debates, concepts, issues, and disciplinary approaches to studying religion as an academic subject.

WHEN:
Monday/Wednesday
3:00-4:20 pm

WHERE:
IVC

INSTRUCTOR:
Dr. Nathan Devir
(nathan.devir@utah.edu)

* No previous background in Religious Studies required. While this course is mandatory for Religious Studies majors, it can be taken for elective credit in other applicable majors.